

Ute Ethnobotany

Saturday, June 7 at 9:00 am - 10:00 am

Montrose Botanic Gardens

1800 Niagara Drive (just south of the Pavilion)

Presented by Mary Menz, CSU Native Plant Master, author of two books on area wildflowers and a member of the Ute Museum's all-volunteer ethnobotany garden team since 2017.

info@montrosegardens.org

Mary will highlight the uses of native plants that are culturally important to the Ute people.
She'll also bring some iced rose hip tea and Mormon tea to sample, plus some examples of other items made from native plants.

$5 suggested donation; free to MBS members