

Some Helpful Garden Resources

plantselect.org

Plant Select® is a collaboration of Colorado State University, Denver Botanic Gardens and professional horticulturists. Its mission is to find and distribute the very best plants for gardens in the intermountain region. Montrose Botanic Gardens are a demonstration garden for Plant Select® -- look for the Plant Select® tag here and in our local nurseries.

botanicgardens.org/education/water-wise-resources

Denver Botanic Gardens supports water-wise gardening with tips on plants, landscape designs, soil and mulch, and free water-wise yard seminars.

xerces.org/pollinator-resource-center/mountain-region

Xerces offers lots of downloadable resources to help in identifying native pollinators as well as planning, establishing, restoring and maintaining pollinator habitat.

rockies.audubon.org/habitat-hero/resources

Audubon's Habitat Heroes provides tools and information for creating bird habitat in your garden. Learn about the benefits of native plants plus get help in designing your own Habitat Hero Garden!

COLORADO STATE UNIVERSITY
EXTENSION

extension.colostate.edu/topic-areas/yard-garden/

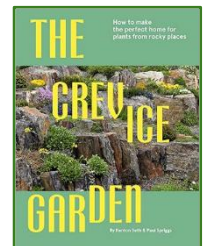

CSU Extension provides a variety publications to download and links to websites to help you solve gardening problems and develop skills. Do you still have gardening questions? Contact our local CSU Master Gardeners through Tri-River Extension at Friendship Hall (1001 N 2nd Street) at (970) 249-3935.

extension.colostate.edu/low-flammability-landscape-plants/

In conjunction with the Colorado State Forest Service, CSU Extension also offers resources on wildfire mitigation and low flammability landscape plants.

montrosegardens.org/programs

Inspired by our crevice garden? Check out this helpful book, The Crevice Garden by Kenton Seth. Or better yet, attend one of Kenton's workshops at the Montrose Botanic Gardens on Saturday, September 6, 2025!

Montrose Botanic Gardens
1800 Pavilion Drive • Montrose CO 81401
Open daily, dawn to dusk; free admission

info@montrosegardens.org
www.montrosegardens.org
facebook.com/montrosegardens
Federal tax ID 84-1331789